

Business aviation caterers

Bon appetit at 41,000 feet

ALISON PRICE

EDEISE DORET

FOR THE MOST DEDICATED BUSINESS AVIATION caterers, there is no greater compliment than the smile that follows a bite of praline pecan French toast or maple duck breast with wild rice and blackberry juice. And among those who fly privately, there exists no shortage of folks who appreciate a fine meal, perfectly prepared and served.

The hundreds of kitchens that specialize in catering for private and corporate aviation produce many such meals. Here's a list of those caterers. So kick back, find the ones that cover your turf and get ready to enjoy. There's something for everyone.
